Newsie, Cook Draw Horses

Waving his lucky telegram and flashing a big smile, Chad Smith, who has drawn horse in Irish sweep on Cambridgeshire, was centre of attraction yesterday as he sold newspapers at his regular stand at Douglas and Fort. If he wins big money, he plans to finish paying for his home, have a holiday—and keep on selling papers.

Seventy-three-year-old Chinese cook Wong Sing, another lucky ticket holder, will keep right on cooking even if he wins big prize, but would take Canada-wide holiday first. He has taught Toy, his pet budgie, to talk Chinese. See story on page 6.—(Colonist photos by Jim Ryan.)

Defeat Not His Fault

'Just Not So' Says Harris

By DAVID BROWN

Former finance minister Walter Harris denied yesterday he had assumed responsibility for the Liberal party's defeat in June because of his introduction of a "tight-money" policy.

"That's what the newspapers printed. But it is not what I said," he told a press conference shortly after his arrival in Victoria.

He explained that at the

time he stoutly defended and admitted the responsibility for the anti-inflation policy of restricting credit.

PRIMARY CAUSE

"I said at the time that I had heard from various sources that the tight-money policy was a primary cause of the government's downfall. This was translated into a statement that I was taking the responsibility for the Liberal defeat."

He emphasized that he still stoutly defends his apparently unpopular fiscal policy as "not only the right way but the only way" to curb Canada's inflationary economy.

ARE THEY ALL WRONG

"The United States, United Kingdom and most countries of Europe, outside of Germany, have adopted this policy. Are they all wrong?"

The business recession now being experienced is the result of a combination levelling-off of the post-war boom when supply has caught up with demand and a lack of confidence by investors in the future, he said.

He expects the business "slow-down" to continue for some time "until that vital element—confidence—is restored."

CONFIDENCE REMOVED

Trade policy, or lack of a trade policy by the Conservative government is succeeding in only removing confidence.

"The policies are of a kind that restrict rather than expand trade," he said.

Americans are losing confidence in Canada when it is announced that Canada will divert 15 per cent of its trade from the U.S. to U.K. "And then the Tories told Washington that they didn't mean all they said."

"Simply diverting trade is not expanding trade," he said.

Fuse Douses Street Lights

All downtown Victoria street lights were blacked out for two hours last night when a fuse blew as a result of transformer trouble in the downtown area.

Some residential areas were without street lighting for 30 minutes.

Sweep Luck Doubled

VANCOUVER (CP)—Mrs. Edith Gehrens, wife of a German immigrant who won $28,000 in last June's Irish Sweepstakes has drawn a ticket on a horse scheduled to run in the Cambridgeshire handicap Wednesday.

Last June her husband, Gunter, held a half interest in a ticket which won second prize of $56,000. Her horse, Mysterion, is listed as a likely starter but isn't the favorite.

'Shrouded 80-Foot Monster'

MOSCOW (UP)—Shrouded weapons, including one 80-foot-long monster, dotted the streets of Moscow yesterday in preparation for the Bolshevik anniversary parade that is expected to unveil a Soviet guided missile arsenal.

The parade of the atomic-age Red army across cobblestoned Red Square on Nov. 7 will climax a year of Soviet preparations and undoubtedly will emphasize such scientific successes as the TU-104 jet airliner, the intercontinental ballistic missile (ICBM) and the earth satellite still whirling today in its space orbit three weeks to the day after it was launched.

Some diplomatic observers speculated that the Soviets might try experimental ICBMs and other super weapons which Communist party chief Nikita S. Khrushchev said recently the Russians "have up our sleeves." The Soviet press has hinted at a show of weapons in the Russian possession on the occasion of the 40th anniversary of the October revolution.

Some of these weapons have appeared on Moscow streets in the downtown area where they will be threaded into the line of march past the reviewing stand atop the Stalin-Lenin mausoleum.

Most striking of the shrouded weapons is an 80-foot-long object, covered with canvas and mounted on a wheeled chassis pulled by a tractor. Such a huge weapon has not been seen during previous parades and it is presumed to be a guided missile.

Other canvas-covered objects of varying shorter lengths, parked under guard, appear to be mobile launchers with missiles of several types.

Only Washington Says . . .

U.S. Using Syria as a Cover-Up?

By LLOYD McDONALD
Canadian Press Staff Writer

The United States appears to be the only power worried in the current Syrian-Turkish Middle East dispute, and even delegations friendly to the West in the United Nations are giving less than enthusiastic backing to Washington's contention that the situation is critical to the extent of threatening a world conflict.

The big public propaganda outburst over the border dispute has come, as expected, from Syria itself and the Soviet Union. But there is a strong feeling that Washington, in an indirect way, is using the issue to cover up its own diplomatic failures.

The Eisenhower doctrine offering American aid to any Middle East country which claims to be threatened by Communist aggression has faltered with a dull thud in the Arab world. This has led to a growing feeling that the U.S. state department is booming the Syrian dispute as a means of taking the emphasis off this failure.

Turkey itself, as a NATO member with a common border with Russia, has contended all along that Syria's charges of a threatened invasion have been aimed at influencing the Turkish internal political picture. The Turks vote in a general election Sunday, and Syria has claimed that as soon as this is out of the way the armed attack will begin.

American pressure in the UN Assembly on the friendly powers has been growing in the last two weeks; the U.S. wants the assembly to express public opposition to the Syrian side on the grounds that Russia has taken over the ruling position there.

Syria has had a leftist quasi-military government since army officers took over in a coup early in September. There have been strong indications that Russia has been giving this government more than moral support, even to the extent of sending key military officials to Syria in an authoritative, rather than an advisory, capacity.

The U.S. has pointed to this possibility as a threat to world peace, and has labelled the Syrian charges of Turkish military massing on the Syrian border as an excuse by the leftist Arab state to ignite the explosive Middle East with an armed outbreak as a preventive defensive measure.

Needless to say Russia and Syria have taken full advantage of this attitude to serve their own ends. The Soviet Union, flushed with the success of its long-range rocket program over that of the U.S., has been talking toughly and threateningly in the UN assembly.

Syria, as a small power, has been elevated to a position of importance which she would not have dreamed of a year ago.

'Arson' Cries Lodge

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (CP)—The United States Friday made one of the strongest diplomatic attacks ever directed against Russia for its part in the Syrian-Turkish dispute in the Middle East.

Henry Cabot Lodge, chief U.S. delegate to the UN assembly, labelled the Soviet government an "arsonist group" and a "law-breaker."

DEFENDS U.S.

Lodge, in his 20-minute denunciation of Russian policy in the Middle East, defended at the same time his own government's efforts in that direction.

That was the main development in the resumed assembly debate on Syria's complaint that Turkey is planning an invasion of her territory after Sunday's Turkish general election is out of the way.

ADJOURNED

Assembly President Munro of New Zealand shortly afterwards adjourned the debate for the weekend.

Most delegations—even friendly to the U.S. and Western side—do not anticipate any crisis situation arising out of the dispute.

Syria, after Lodge had made his speech, withdrew a request to address the assembly Friday, presumably to hold further conference with the home government in Damascus—and probably the Russian delegation here as well.

STRONG PROSPECTS

The prospects remained strong that the idea of Secretary Dag Hammarskjöld making a personal visit to the area in dispute would be pursued in the assembly when open debate resumed Monday.

Lodge used such terms as "vilification" along with the references to arsonism and law-breaking to describe what the U.S. thought of Russia in general and its Middle East policy in particular.

Spy Faces Death

Russian Col. Rudolf I. Abel, 55, was convicted in New York Friday for stealing American military and atomic secrets for Moscow. Maximum sentence is death. He will be sentenced Nov. 15. He is the first foreign national ever to stand trial for his life on espionage charges in a civilian American court-room.

Bennett Boss

Socred Revolt Beaten

VANCOUVER (CP)—Premier Bennett won an overwhelming vote of confidence Friday night at the B.C. Social Credit convention for his $28 tax rebate to resident home owners.

Entering convention debate—where he usually presides silently—he argued down a proposal to pay $28 to all resident homeowners, regardless of how many rooms or suites they rent.

MLA Don Smith of Victoria spearheaded the attack during hot debate for the motion. It was sponsored by Victoria, Oak Bay and Saanich Social Credit groups.

The premier's victory over any revolt seemed complete when another resolution, critical of his long delay in appointing a minister of agriculture, was withdrawn.

Party Convention Hears Resolution

VANCOUVER (CP)—B.C. Social Crediters were asked Friday to support a move to abolish international labor unions and replace them with distinctly Canadian bodies.

The suggestion to the annual convention of the B.C. Social Credit League was made by Salmon Arm constituency.

The resolution upheld the principle that "employment may be denied to the man without a union card" but added that reports of labor bosses exploiting union members for their own advantage "are too numerous to be discredited."

IN U.S.

It was unfortunate that the head offices of these international unions were in the United States where the membership is overwhelmingly in the majority.

The resolution asks the provincial government to urge Parliament to make the change. Three constituency associations sponsored a resolution proposing "a program of education which will expose the danger inherent in bank manipulation of credit."

DEPRESSION RISK

Present fiscal conditions could lead to a serious depression, said party supporters from South Peace River, Vancouver Point Grey and Nanaimo and the Islands.

Knowledge of bank credit principles would help direct attention to "the source of economic disruption." Vancouver East suggested the convention ask the provincial government "to press for a nation-wide transferable, industrial pension plan which will embrace every employer, large or small, and cover every worker, on a contributory basis."

SYSTEM WANTING

The proposal said the present system of industrial pensions leaves many things to be desired.

Fort George constituency proposed B.C. give equal consideration to all applicants for government positions, regardless of political affiliation.

A request for a form of Hansard report was made by Delta constituency. It asks that all speeches made during sessions of the legislature be reported verbatim in a weekly bulletin, as is done in Alberta.

Fort George constituency recommended the premier give "very serious consideration" to the appointment of ministers for vacant portfolios as soon as possible, and not fill them himself.

Delegates believe the resolution pertained to the agriculture portfolio, recently accorded to Newton Steacy of North Vancouver. No other cabinet positions are vacant at this time, but dual portfolios are held by Robert Bonner, attorney-general and minister of industrial development, trade and commerce; Lyle Wick, labor and railways; and Premier Bennett, who holds the finance portfolio.

Esquimalt suggested a more considerate program be outlined if Princess Margaret visits B.C. during next year's centennial celebrations.

PREMIER BENNETT

Bennett Gambles Future

VANCOUVER (CP)—Premier Bennett staked the future of his Social Credit government on the proposed Wenner-Gren development for the northland of British Columbia at a Social Credit convention here Friday.

"I am willing to risk this government on our record and our dealings," he said.

Earlier in a surprise remark, the premier said, "Canada is not ready for Social Credit, and our movement is not ready to take over the (federal) government. There will be a time in Canada," he added, "when Social Credit will sweep Canada as it swept Alberta and B.C."

'Tories Will Win'

VANCOUVER (CP)—Social Credit leader Solon Low said Friday the Conservatives will win the next election with an overall majority.

Mr. Low said his prediction did not mean endorsement. "I like this new government because they have gone into business with the frame of mind things can be done."

ALL ABOARD

With G. E. Mortimore

TWELVE years after the end of the war, thousands of refugees are leading wretched grey lives in camps of West Germany.

Some of them are too ill laborers imported by the Nazis. Others are fugitives from Communism. Their hopes of getting to Canada, the United States, Britain or other countries are dim.

Devoted Helpers

A group of devoted people is doing something to help these lost thousands. Under auspices of the Adoption Committee for Aid to Displaced Persons in London, England, local committees in Victoria, Vancouver and Ottawa have "adopted" entire camps and a number of individuals in the state of Wurtemberg.

For the friendless men and women in the drab, damp and smelly camps, many of them mentally or physically, or too old to stand a chance of passing immigration standards. Some are staying behind to look after disabled children, or are struggling to get free of official red tape.

The Victoria group has adopted the camp of Alcholzshof. Each member of the group writes personally to an individual or a family in the camp; sends gifts and needs.

Vancouver has adopted the camps of Goldshof, Malmshof and Fichtenberg; Ottawa, Fishbeck.

Treasured Name

Mrs. J. Bourdillon Hebert, a member of the Victoria committee, not long ago visited the camps of Alcholzshof and Goldshof.

"One old gentleman, badly crippled with arthritis, came slowly from his wood pile to greet me and produced from his coat pocket a very dirty piece of cardboard on which was printed the name of his adopter. It was his most treasured possession, and he wanted me to see it, the name of a man who lived far away in the city of Vancouver but who took the trouble to write to him."

Men and women in the camps spoke of their adopters with touching warmth, and were eager for news of them.

Refugees Here Mark Uprising

More than 50 Victoria Hungarian refugees Wednesday night publicly remembered their hopeless revolt a year ago against Soviet oppression.

The gathering took part in wreath-laying ceremonies at the legislative buildings.

Many more camps need to be adopted. Mrs. Rigby, Hon. Secretary, Adoption Committee for Aid to Displaced Persons, 227 Edgewood Road, London, W.C.2, England, will give information to any interested group.

Mrs. Philip van der Goes, 993 Admirals Road, Victoria, will handle donations for a revolving fund to help meet the more desperate emergencies among refugees.

Collision Victim Died Accidentally

Verdict of accidental death was returned by a six-man jury inquiring yesterday into the death of Samuel Franklin Neal, 78, of 1006 Pentrelew.

Mr. Neal died Tuesday of head injuries sustained in a collision Saturday night with a motorcycle at Fort and Quadra.

Reporting its finding to deputy coroner Dr. J. H. Moore, the jury declared there was "insufficient evidence to attach blame to the motorcyclist."

James C. A. Armour, 661 Constance, the motorcyclist, has been charged by city police with impaired driving. He was remanded yesterday without plea to Oct. 29.

Victoria Girl Leads All B.C. In Nurses' Examinations

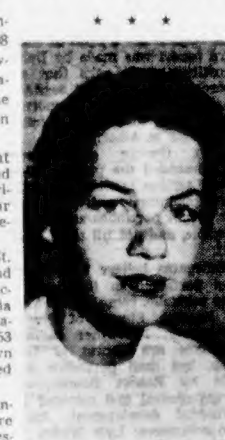

Heather C. Clark, 22, daughter of Mrs. K. C. Clark, 1608 Hampshire Road, led the province with top marks in examinations held last month by the Registered Nurses' Association of British Columbia.

She trained for her RN at Vancouver General Hospital and is now at the University of British Columbia in the final year of a course leading to the degree of BSc. in nursing.

Educated in Victoria at St. Christopher's, Monterey and Oak Bay High Schools and Victoria College, she won a Victoria Women's Canadian Club matriculation scholarship in 1953 and, earlier this year, a Crown Zellerbach Canada Limited scholarship in nursing.

Names of 252 successful candidates for the RN title were released from Vancouver yesterday by association headquarters.

Martin Charges Holdout on Aged

OTTAWA (CP)—Paul Martin (L. Essex East) said yesterday some provinces are not paying their share of aid to Canada's needy aged citizens.

The former Liberal health minister also criticized the Progressive Conservative administration for not carrying out all its election promises on this matter.

Mr. Martin said his party will support the government's legislation to increase pensions.

Mr. Martin said only four provinces—British Columbia, Alberta, Saskatchewan and Newfoundland—now share the federal-provincial aid program.

All parties supported the government's proposed pension increases Friday.

But the CCF said the boosts should be higher—about $75 a month, instead of the proposed $55.

F. D. Shaw (S.C. Red Deer) said the $9 monthly increase in old age and other pensions was appreciated. "But I am not going so far as to agree that it is sufficient to provide a decent standard of living."

Resources Minister Alvin Hamilton said Friday night preliminary plans are being made by the government for the further development of Canada's travel industry and national resources.

He gave no details.

The design on Canada's 25-cent stamp was described as something "like a still used in the manufacture of moonshine." F. D. Shaw (S.C. Red Deer) asked Postmaster-General William Hamilton to explain the design.

Mr. Hamilton said Mr. Shaw's "best course" was to look up Hugues LaPointe, who approved the design before his defeat, to find out what it signifies.

Possible extension of the benefit period for unemployment insurance now is being studied by the insurance commission, Labor Minister Starr told the Commons.

Hall, Piano Handicap Performers

By BERT BINNY

Two warm and interesting personalities, Miss Patricia Siwek, soprano, and Jack Cohan, pianist, were the first 1957 visitors to Victoria in the Young Artists Series, presented by the Victoria Branch of the Registered Music Teachers' Association.

They gave a recital last night at 1006 Douglas Street, before an appreciative audience. Unfortunately, the premises were being used for a purpose never originally intended.

Miss Siwek possesses a clear, very definite voice with attractively rounded tones, particularly in the upper registers. For this reason, Schubert's "Der Lindenbaum" did not seem to suit her while Schubert's "Heiden Roselein," which immediately followed it, was lovely.

Mr. Cohan was not helped by an unco-operative instrument. In consequence there seemed to be a tendency to too heavy a touch, but there was no doubt as to his artistic capabilities.

The two artists, both from Winnipeg, are on a tour of Western Canada.

Slightly Damaged

Fisheries Patrol Floats Off Rocks

Only slightly damaged, the Victoria-based fisheries patrol vessel CGS Laurier was floated off the rocks of the west coast of Graham Island, in the Queen Charlotte's, yesterday.

The Laurier had run aground in early morning fog during a routine inspection of spawning grounds.

It was the second marine accident in five weeks for the Laurier. The first one, however, in which a fishboat was badly damaged, was never disclosed to any B.C. daily newspapers.

The 113-foot steel-hulled ship had about eight inches of water pumped from it by an auxiliary engine.

Capt. C. W. Earnshaw, Vancouver, and 15 crew members, most of whom are from Victoria, used lines and winches from the shore to right the Laurier, which was listing at a 50-degree angle after it ran aground.

About five weeks ago, it was reported, when the fishing season was at its peak in the straits, the Laurier collided with the seine boat Cape Dorset.

This was in deep fog, while the Laurier was patrolling the limit line at the entrance to the Strait of Juan de Fuca.

B.C. Labor to Give Its Support to CCF

'Remote Control' Scored

By Colonist Staff Reporter

VANCOUVER—The B.C. Federation of Labor yesterday condemned "remote control methods of bargaining through local managements"—by large corporations.

An "emergency resolution" asked the incoming executive to examine the problem and place it before the Canadian Labor Congress executive council.

The resolution specifically concerned striking workers at Simmons Ltd., Barrett Roofing and Imperial Oil establishments on the mainland.

A spokesman for the Imperial Oil workers said the biffence of negotiating "by proxy" is committed repeatedly and is one of the main reasons for B.C.'s "plague of strikes."

Colonist Staff Reporter

VANCOUVER—The 100,000-strong B.C. Federation of Labor yesterday declared that "the CCF warrants the support of umbia." The much-debated resolution, stating that the CCF is "the best means of presently obtaining their (the workers) legislative aims," was passed by between 75 and 80 per cent of the approximately 350 delegates at the Federation's second convention.

The convention's decision could be a deciding factor in the stand the newly-merged Canadian Labor Congress takes at its second convention in Winnipeg April 21 to 25, 1958.

The Ontario Federation of Labor, which embraces more than 500,000 workers supported the CCF in the last federal election.

"This resolution is going to divide the labor movement right down the middle," warned Sid Thompson, Vancouver IWA delegate. "The resolution will not meet with the overwhelming support of delegates here, and certainly not of the members of their unions."

Carl Anshelm, Port Alberni IWA delegate, described the resolution as "the kiss of death" for the CCF.

Absentee Pensioners

NEW old-age security legislation now before Parliament at Ottawa doubling the period during which a pensioner may be away from the country without forfeiting any part of his allowance will afford a substantial measure of relief to those with hospitable relatives or friends living outside Canada. The amending bill shows the Conservative government to be responsive to appeals which the former government steadfastly declined to recognize. It is a partial victory for pensioners' organizations and their sympathizers throughout Canada and may in time lead to complete elimination of restrictions on an elderly person's place of residence after eligibility for the pension has been reached.

A point which does not appear to have been mentioned in references to the new legislation is the possibility of it permitting absence from Canada for an unbroken period of 12 months rather than six without interrupting pension remittances. Under the present regulations it is in order for a pensioner to live out of Canada for a maximum of three months "in any one year." As the pension year corresponds to the calendar year this allows a recipient to remain out of Canada continuously from Oct. 1 to March 31 every two years without suffering deductions.

If the same conditions apply to the extended period (a matter not yet clarified) it would be possible to draw the pension in full during 12 months' unbroken absence from July 1 to the following June 30. The recipient would then have to remain continuously in Canada for only the next 12 months before becoming entitled to another year's absence; and he could qualify for half a year's absence in half that time.

The flow of money out of Canada through this concession should be negligible, but the help it will afford to some of the pensioners could be considerable. For one thing it should cut down travelling costs, which are a serious handicap to the movement of those with little or nothing but the pension on which to live. The same outlay on fares as is now necessary for a six-month round trip would cover a full year's absence.

The pensioners' organizations probably will not be satisfied until the right inherent in this form of contributory pension to spend it where the recipient chooses is fully established. In the meantime, however, the bill now before the Commons represents an important gain.

Continuing Handicap

AFTER all the discussion has ended, it is obvious that the City will have to do something about the arena floor. The basic trouble, it transpires now, is that boiler tubing was laid in the first place to serve under conditions for which it was not made. Adjustments were made to the ice-making plant to overcome undue wear on the pipes, but as it develops not sufficient was done to take care of the corrosion. It is not now a question of blame or fault-finding, but of a lasting cure. If the City cannot afford a thorough-going replacement now perhaps patching is the only action that can be taken to keep the arena in service. But this is only a stop-gap. A permanent remedy is needed.

While the arena floor remains in its present condition the arena management is taking a gamble every time they make a contract for the use of the ice. A day-to-day means of stopping the leakage in the pipes and maintaining ice on the surface obviously can only be a makeshift. Full replacement of the piping system may be costly, but short of that there does not appear to be any enduring remedy. The City's own position seems to be that it wishes to get to the end of this year without capital outlay that has not been budgeted. Next year, however, the desirability of final action on putting the arena in proper shape should certainly be faced. Only action can do that.

Whether plastic pipes are the solution or some other form of metal tubing is required, there must surely be a remedy for this condition. Ice arenas have been in operation throughout the continent for some time. What is clear, however, is that boiler tubing, even with the special equipment designed to overcome its defects, is not doing the job. If replacement should run into considerable cost, the City could amortize that over the life of the new system. But it is not reasonable to go on indefinitely in the present condition; where the arena operates in almost emergency status and there is no sure guarantee of ice at any given time.

A 'Dream Mile'

VANCOUVER staged the last Empire Games, three years ago, and it will be some time before it can hope to duplicate its fine effort of 1954. The event has to be spread around the Commonwealth, and the invitation to act as host country is regarded as an honor. It is eagerly sought. Next year the quadrennial occasion is due to be marked in Wales, with the city of Cardiff responsible for the setting and the staging. Arrangements for the 1958 games have already begun, and athletic groups in Canada and other Commonwealth countries are pointing their sights towards this great sporting assembly.

The B.C. track and field organization has come up with an idea that could be a splendid curtain-raiser to the Cardiff games. It would also be a top-drawer promotion for next year's centenary. The proposal is to stage a special centennial meet to which the cream of the world's runners would be invited, including the mile-record holder, Derek Ibbotson of England, and Russia's great 5,000 metres champion, Vladimir Kuts. For many of the competing athletes these centennial games would be in the nature of a tune-up for the Cardiff event to follow. If the suggestion comes off it means that Vancouver would have another spectacular sporting attraction to offer.

What the promoters have in mind, primarily, is to hold a "dream mile" that would compare in drama and excitement with the "miracle mile" of 1954. The latter is still a red-hot memory in Vancouver, and Victoria too. The four-minute barrier has been breached repeatedly since Roger Bannister and John Landy met in their famous duel at Empire Stadium, but anticipation of multiple record-breaking is as keen now as then. If the B.C. track and field body succeeds in bringing the best of the Commonwealth and European athletes together in special centennial competition next June it will be a distinct feather in its cap. As well as providing a thrilling spectator event such a contest would tend to spur Canadian athletes aiming at the Cardiff games a month later.

Interpreting the News:

Co-operation Keynote Now

By ED SIMON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

BRITAIN and the United States appear to be ready to co-operate in their Middle East policies after hanging separately for the last year.

There is a noticeable change in the atmosphere in the current talks between Prime Minister Macmillan and President Eisenhower from the constraint that heralded their talks in Bermuda last April.

At that time there was an uncomfortable feeling among Britons that Macmillan, heir of Sir Anthony Eden's intervention in Suez, was approaching Eisenhower in the role of the erring school boy trying to butter up the headmaster.

American spokesmen had been outspokenly critical of Suez and had made it painfully clear that they were anxious to dissociate themselves from Britain in their future Middle East planning.

But the ostentatious shipment of American arms to Jordan under the Eisenhower doctrine has proved no more popular in Arab capitals than the dropping of British paratroopers at Port Said. Russian penetration of the Middle East has continued and the doctrine itself is virtually dead.

The propaganda mills of Cairo and Damascus, manfully supported by Moscow, have virtually ignored Britain and France, the culprits of Suez, in their efforts to brand the United States as the Western imperialist aggressor in the Middle East.

In the face of mounting Arab hostility, the U.S. has nothing to gain diplomatically by further displays of coolness toward Britain.

With the disastrous consequences of precipitate action fresh in their memory, Macmillan and Eisenhower are not expected to attempt a spectacular move to turn the tide of Russian expansion in the Arab world. The Syrian-Turkish problem is before the United Nations assembly and the two leaders are presumed to be content to see it talked out there.

London sources see the possibility of more fruitful discussion of long-term economic projects. There has been considerable talk of a kind of Colombo Plan for the Middle East, under which the two countries would offer technical assistance and material resources to the underdeveloped Arab countries without political strings.

In the present superheated atmosphere, it is an offer that few Arab governments would dare to accept. But it might be effective at a later date.

Russia's hit-and-run economic assistance already has proved a mixed blessing to Egypt, which batted cotton for arms last year only to find the cotton competing against her current crop on world markets. Syria, which embarked on a similar deal this year, is likely to run into the same difficulties.

"Say, in that moonlight you look kind of attractive"

Flying Heroes

By FRANK KELLEY

REFERRING to the Battle of Britain and the part quite a number of Canadian young men filled in the history-making events occurring on the European scene during the Second World War, an anniversary of which was celebrated on Sept. 15 last, we took advantage of the occasion to say something of the young airmen's services with the Royal Air Force. These were featured prominently over the air by speakers familiar with the grim story that was enacted when Britain was taking the brunt of the war on behalf of her own folk and the rest of the free world.

In that Saturday morning column we mentioned the movement of several hundred young lads from Canada, seeking enlistment in the Royal Air Force as a means of livelihood, some being from this province. Mention was also made of the interest displayed by several Victorians who materially assisted in the job-seeking migration and made it possible for all the Old Country trained flyers to serve with the Royal Canadian Air Force when it arrived in England.

All this proved to be good sense, although the migration had not been encouraged from Ottawa. Refusing to be discouraged, those interested in rendering assistance helped contribute something to the over-all achievement they were credited with when their job-seeking fitted them to take part in what turned out to be a great challenge, in which they shared with their kith and kin beyond the seas in what has been designated "Britain's Finest Hour."

Of course not all the Canadians who managed to get overseas in the thirties originated on the west coast. Young men from all parts of Canada had sought employment across the Atlantic according to a communication that came my way some time in the early 1940s. It was from the Canadian liaison officer at Air Ministry, London, and was entitled "Canadian Help in the Battle of Britain."

He stated: "From my point of view as RCAF liaison officer at Air Ministry, during 2½ years before the commencement of the war, I can recall something about how our splendid Canadian contributions reached the RAF under circumstances which only a few of us can appreciate. At the outbreak I endeavored to compute a nominal roll of Canadians serving in the RAF, many of whom worked their way across the Atlantic in various ways. As I recall the figures there were 900 who obtained short service commissions in the RAF, and 600 who entered the ranks. The story, to me at least, is a fascinating one, which I think has a rightful place in the over-all story of the Canadian effort."

Also, in his opinion, those migrants were the backbone of our first contributions. Without their help in the Battle of Britain, fought by so few for the benefit of so many, there would have been a different story to tell. Any boy, he believed, who could face the hardships those lads faced to get into a fighting service is of the stuff from which heroes are fashioned. For not only did they have to face the difficulty of getting to England and into the RAF on arrival there, but the majority lacked the kindly interest tendered the boys from B.C. by Police Commissioner Parsons and Captain Seymour-Biggs, who recommended several hundred from this province for service with the RAF before the war started.

Reports from Ottawa

IF the CCF had its way the government would now proceed as a matter of priority to try to unscramble the well-scrambled egg which is the Trans-Canada gas pipeline project.

It is obvious that the government intends to do no such thing. Instead, it has set up a royal commission to inquire into many aspects of various forms of energy such as gas, oil and electricity and make recommendations concerning the protection of the national interest therein.

The socialists have been quick to point out that the commission provides an effective pigeonhole into which the government can stuff the pipeline, to avoid taking any action at this time.

That, of course, is true. But the unanswered question is whether this is a purpose, perhaps the prime purpose, of having the royal commission, or whether this is a by-product, even a welcome one, of the government's need for a detailed factual study of the whole energy picture before formulating new policies.

CCF leader Coldwell advocates expropriation of the western leg of the pipeline, from Alberta to Winnipeg—the part of the line that was financed by a federal loan. The central section, across northern Ontario, is being built by a Crown company.

The proposal has a certain patriotic appeal. Oust the Texan buccaneers from control of this great Canadian resource. Send them packing back to Dallas with their tails between their legs. Restore Canada's heritage to Canadian control.

But at what price? At the cost of an immediate election? At the cost of reducing the influx of American investment dollars, and even frightening U.S. capital out of the country? These are questions more serious to the government than to the CCF, which is trying to implant the idea in the voters' minds that if the Tories carry out their election promises, it will be only because the CCF forced them to.

Understandably the Tories do not want to jeopardize their legislative program by risking another pipeline debate this fall. They want to be able to go to the people at a propitious time, likely next spring, with pensions hiked, taxes cut, farm price floors raised and other accomplishments to their credit.

The Liberals and the Social Creditors could not fail to oppose the Tories and the socialists over legislation to expropriate the pipeline. On paper the latter would win any vote by a narrow margin. But what if, on a vote, a dozen socialists were inexplicably absent? If the government were defeated it would have to fight an election without having fulfilled its election promises of last spring. The Liberals would face an election with a lame duck leader. Or in a desperate move to forestall the government's defeat, Liberals or Socialists would have to abstain from voting. In these situations only the CCF would profit politically.

Moreover, discriminatory expropriation could not help but adversely affect the willingness of U.S. capital to come to Canada. And this country still needs U.S. dollars for development and to help finance our trade deficit with the U.S.

Thus it seems only common sense for the government to act cautiously, to await a thorough study of the whole broad field of energy before making decisions affecting the pipeline. In the meantime the government has a considerable measure of control over the Texan buccaneers through the Board of Transport Commissioners and by virtue of government ownership of the northern Ontario link of the pipeline.

The Packsack

Science Can Be Simple

By GREGORY CLARK

NOT all our scientists are involved in nuclear physics, astronomy, or mathematics so fancy that only goose eggheads, who are much higher than ordinary eggheads, can follow them. Here and there scientists are engaged in enterprises so homely that there is something endearing about them.

For instance, on the Miramichi river, New Brunswick's famous salmon river, precious not only to millionaires who pay extraordinary fees to possess private clubs for fly fishing, but also to large numbers of commercial salmon fishermen who haunt the mouths of these great rivers, the salmon were very seriously depleted in recent years by the use of DDT in spraying the New Brunswick forests against the spruce budworm. Squadrons of aircraft sprayed hundreds of square miles of valuable forest. And the DDT quite incidentally killed the insect life in the small brooks, streams and tributaries where the baby salmon of the Miramichi were spending their infancy. Many of the salmon parr were killed by the DDT. The others were starved of insects.

Professor F. P. Ide of the University of Toronto was among those invited to investigate the problem. It was decided simply to transplant insects into the barren waters.

Now it would be nice to be able to say that science came up with some process as modern, as spectacular, as those squadrons of aircraft spraying DDT against the budworm. But biologists are more homely than their brethren in the more publicized sciences. Gangs of men were employed to wade into creeks that had not been affected by DDT and fill hand-carried barrows with stones from the stream beds that were naturally infested with the larvae or crawlers of the desirable insects: mayflies, black flies, stone flies and many others. These rocks were put into trucks and young biologists accompanied the loads across the bush roads to the Miramichi's tributary brooks, to keep the rocks constantly sprayed with watering cans. By a method so simple that Adam or Moses might have thought of it, the creeks and headwaters of the famous river are being restocked with insects, so that the next generation of the lordly salmon will find, in their infancy, something to eat.

Canadian Notebook

By RICHARD L. THOMAS

CALGARY, according to an expert I spoke to on the train, is the nursery which produces the future population of Victoria. It is the place to make money in order to have enough to retire in comfort on Vancouver Island. If this is a true assessment then I can only wonder that about 30 years hence there will be very little English spoken in Victoria.

A stroll round half-a-dozen city blocks on a Sunday evening would have convinced a blind man that he was anywhere but in Canada. I heard almost every European language except English, and, strange to say, French. I recognized German, Italian, Spanish and suspected Hungarian, Ukrainian and Maltese. Because I was not blind I heard also what I presumed to be Chinese and Japanese. It was the most polyglot assortment of people and languages to come my way since last I walked in London's Soho.

I also saw more policemen on the beat than I have seen anywhere else in Canada. Calgary's city police give the impression of a well-trained and disciplined body of men, and it seems that the local police chief shares the view that crime is proportional to the number of men on the beat. Crime is rare in Calgary despite the fact that the city has nearly doubled its population in a decade. A recent crime of violence was the first in months. Perhaps it was coincidence but of three policemen I spoke to one was pounding the beat in London three months ago and another was busy with the republican army in Ulster until four months ago. The third was a native Calgarian.

The Londoner agreed that Calgary was as cosmopolitan as Soho. The Irishman did not know what to make of it and the Calgarian was just a little worried about what was going to happen this winter. Things were bad last year and it looked as though they were going to be worse this year—especially amongst the foreign population who were largely laborers and construction workers who had not been here long enough to qualify for unemployment benefits.

Calgary gives the impression of a city which has grown too quickly. The city streets in places contain potholes worthy of Gulch Gully—fine, deep springbreakers for automobiles and leg breakers for unwary pedestrians. I put a rule into one in Ninth Avenue and recorded an average depth of 15 inches and length of around three feet. A friendly policeman informed me that it was due to relaying sewers which had become inadequate for the traffic overflow.

Again massive modern buildings, impressive five and six-story parking lots, and banks with escalator service to the basement rub shoulders with old stone buildings straight out of a western frontier novel. Girls with an almost child appearance share the sidewalks with others in loud colored shirts, jeans and ten-gallon hats. Men seem to share a conservatism in dress with a sense of the bizarre but one learns quickly that nothing one sees is typical of Calgary.

Squalid houses and apartment blocks in some areas are matched by the fabulous wealth of Britannia which has the air of Uplands plus. Dirty and dilapidated cars share the streets with vehicles of shiny ostentation. There is obvious poverty and wealth.

The small boy in me rejoices in another Calgary experience—the joy of meeting face to face a real Canadian Pacific locomotive blowing real steam and chuffing like a railway train. His powerful breath sounded so much more masculine than the overworked sewing machine sound of a diesel unit taking the strain of a heavy train. The steam engine may be passing from this earth but he has something suggesting power and grandeur that his successor lacks.

One was conscious too that the engineer had pride in his steam child, and smiled at my obvious approval. One could never imagine a diesel unit being stroked or patted no matter how efficient and how powerful it may be. I found interest too in little wee diesels, little more than overgrown tractors, which puffed around the railway yards with empty trucks—but even they could not compete for nostalgic interest with the little tank engines of yesteryear.

The point, of course, is that even in the railway yards we found yesterday and tomorrow rubbing shoulders. They emphasized the only truism of Calgary—that nothing is typical, that nothing is unusual. You are likely to meet up with anything in Calgary from Ye Old English Shoppe (training for retirement in Victoria?) to the most modern store. There is nothing typically Canadian about it.

Just typical Calgary and rather fresh and exciting.

Session at Ottawa Today

Macmillan May Brief Cabinet

Parley
Planned

WASHINGTON (UPI)—President Eisenhower may attend a "summit" meeting in Paris in December in an effort to sell free nations on his plan for a super scientific alliance to offset Russia's recent missile gains, it was disclosed yesterday.

The disclosure coincided with publication of a communique in which the president and British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan announced plans to pool Anglo-American manpower and resources and appealed to other free nations to follow suit.

The statement also said Eisenhower would urge Congress to relax present curbs on the international exchange of atomic data.

OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister Macmillan of Great Britain may attend a Canadian cabinet session today, reliable sources said Friday night, to brief the entire cabinet on his three days of talks with President Eisenhower.

The initial plan had been for the cabinet to receive a report from Prime Minister Macmillan that would combine his own conversations with Mr. Macmillan earlier in the morning, plus an account of the British-U.S. leaders as "a momentous occurrence."

Rocket Passed 4,000 Miles

Moon in Reach
When Ordered

WASHINGTON (AP)—United States Air Force scientists have put out a rocket faster more than 4,000 miles into space, and Friday they said they see no technological reason why they can't touch the moon—if someone orders it done.

Two air force colonels, who worked on project Far Side in the Pacific Ocean, told reporters some of the story of how, after four frustrations and one doubtful attempt, the scientists finally succeeded on their last try in sending a rocket up from a balloon to the farthest-out point reached by a man-made object.

Colonels Eugene C. LaVier and William H. Bowers still lacked technical reports on the series of shots which began Sept. 25 at Eniwetok Atoll and ended with success Oct. 22.

LaVier, under prodding questions, agreed there are adequate reasons to believe the Oct. 22 rocket passed the hoped-for 4,000-mile mark "by a few hundred miles."

Asked if a research rocket could reach the moon LaVier replied: "Technologically, I don't see why it couldn't be done."

Asked if it could be done within a year, he said that the Far Side scientists weren't working on the moon project.

Mr. Macmillan and Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd are to be house guests of Governor-General Massey.

Talks resume this morning. A cabinet session is scheduled for later in the morning so that Mr. Diefenbaker may report to his colleagues.

"I can only say how happy and glad I am to be in Canada," he replied to Mr. Diefenbaker's greeting.

"I come with a sense of purpose, indeed of exultation, of all that is coming about and will come about through our friendship and co-operation."

"There is a tie between the old country and Canada that is far stronger than it has ever been."

Secrecy
Eased

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The U.S. defence department formally announced yesterday that it had removed the secrecy wraps on identification and success of missiles fired from the Cape Canaveral, Fla., test site.

But it said secrecy would continue on construction and operational performance of such missiles.

A defence spokesman said that under the new policy, test announcements would be made simultaneously at Cape Canaveral and at the Pentagon. They will give the type and name of the missile involved and whether the firing was successful.

If the launching was not successful, he added, the announcement would include a general statement of the cause of the failure.

VANCOUVER — Maj. J. S. Matthews, city archivist, unveiled a bronze plaque in Victory Square yesterday to mark the spot where Vancouver was born. In 1885, Lauchlan Alexander Hamilton, CPR land commissioner, drove the first stake at the corner of Hamilton and Hastings Streets.

ELGIN, N.D. — A farm mother tired of little boys gave birth to quadruplet girls yesterday. Her doctor said the premature babies' chances of survival were "only fair."

BRUSSELS — Robert Bonner, B.C. minister for industrial development, arrived here yesterday for talks with officials of the Brussels 1958 world exhibition.

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. — A move has developed here to send UN Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjöld on a special peace mission to Turkey and Syria.

NEW YORK — Federal District Judge William B. Herlands set Nov. 4 as a tentative date for trial of James R. Hoffa, teamsters union president-elect, on perjury charges.

BUDAPEST — Budapest reports the hanging of Gyula Lendvai, described as the chief of a notorious bandit gang which plundered the Hungarian countryside for months.

WORCESTER, Eng. — Babies in a rural district of Worcestershire are turning blue because drinking water has an abnormally high concentration of nitrates. However, county health officer Dr. L. S. Stephens says there is "very little danger."

ROME — Bosomy Jayne Mansfield came, saw and failed to conquer Rome. She twisted and posed and expressed a desire to see "the Parthenon." The Parthenon is in Athens. Only baggage men, a few travelers and a brace of press agents joined the photographers greeting her.

PENTICTON — Thursday was a bad day for truck driver Albert Kaluk. On his way to Kelowna with apples the load in his semi-trailer shifted and half of it was strewn over the highway north of Peachland. Four miles north of Penticton his load of empty boxes broke loose and scattered for more than 100 yards. Three cars following the truck all were damaged.

GRIFFITHSTOWN, Wales — Mary Gilbert, 65, wed for the fifth time, plans to teach her 31-year-old husband, John, to rock 'n' roll. Her four previous husbands all died. "There's plenty of youth in me yet," she said. "All my husbands have been good men and if John goes, I'll get another one."

BEIRUT — Lebanon buzzed Friday with reports that Saudi Arabia's 55-year-old King Saud may marry a 19-year-old Lebanese schoolgirl, Ferial Solh, niece of Lebanon's Premier Sami Solh. Saud is reported to have four wives, 40 sons, an unstated number of daughters, and between 50 and 100 concubines.

Win a Prize!
Part of Canada

OTTAWA (CP)—The Canadian Tourist Association is entering the "big" prize contest field in the United States. And officials believe they have a prize to outdraw all others—an acre of land in Canada.

The idea is based on a suggestion made Friday by Jack Blicke, a CTA director and owner of radio station CJOB in Winnipeg. He said Manitoba will donate 4,000 acres of land to launch the program.

He told delegates to the CTA's convention that the 4,000 acres could be distributed free of cost to 2,000 U.S. radio and TV stations to be awarded as tax-free prizes to contest-program winners. Winners would receive 99-year leases.

"Canada would get $2,000,000 worth of advertising," Mr. Blicke told delegates in the final day of the three-day convention. The CTA, which later officially adopted a resolution to the effect it would take over the project and develop a suitable contest, said it will try to interest other provinces in donating land and include U.S. magazines and newspapers as well as radio and TV in the contest.

Mr. Elworthy was in his youth a noted track and field star, and an outstanding member of James Bay Athletic Association. He was educated at South Park and Victoria High Schools.

He was awarded the Order of British Empire for his work in placing war veterans in employment.

Until four years ago he was personnel director of Alaska Pine and Cellulose Ltd.

Survivors include his widow, one son, a daughter and two grandchildren in Vancouver; a brother, Harold B. Elworthy, president of Island Tug and Barge Ltd.; and a sister, Miss Emily Elworthy, both of Victoria.

Mrs. F. W. Thomas, 93, a resident here for 67 years, died yesterday.

Born in Birmingham, England, Mrs. Thomas was active until recent months.

She was predeceased by seven years by her husband, who was a lithograph artist with The Daily Colonist for 65 years.

Mrs. Thomas was a life member of the Christ Church Cathedral Women's Auxiliary and the Parish Guild and of the Red Cross here.

She is survived by her daughter, Mrs. P. D. Billock, 25 Wellington, with whom she had lived, and a son, C. H. Thomas, who is employed by the Colonist. Also surviving are three grandchildren and five great-grandchildren.

Funeral arrangements will be announced later.

Thousands in Pot For Seven Islanders

By BRUCE LOWTHER

Six Victorians and a Port Alberni resident can win as much as $140,000 each after an Irish sweepstakes ticket draw yesterday that smashed all records for Canada.

Tickets were drawn for 14 people on Vancouver Island, 54 British Columbians and 293 Canadians—all new records—but many will receive no more than consolation prizes of $1,100.

Vancouver Islanders in line for $140,000 first prize, $56,000 second award, $28,000 third prize or consolation awards, depending upon the outcome of the Cambridge Handicap Wednesday, are:

Charles Torbjorn, young office clerk, of 1018 Oliphant, whose ticket RNR 71829 is on Loppylugs, a 100-6 choice.
Chad Smith, 56-year-old "newbie," of 1414 Stanley, whose ticket RNR 1522 is on Water Snake, a 22-1 choice.
John A. Wilson, 76-year-old former Saskatchewan Liberal M.L.A., of 1060 Queens, whose ticket QAV 27838 is on Colours, a 50-1 choice.

Jack Green, retired CPR employee, of 2045 Goldsmith, whose ticket QBV 11884 is on Fuel, also at 50-1.

Wong Sing, 13-year-old Chinese cook, of 1042 Johnson, whose ticket RNV 15770 is on Expensive Luxury, a 100-1 choice.

An unidentified Victorian who put "Happy Me" on ticket RQD 11194 and drew Chief III, also at 100-1.

Other Islanders who will win $1,100 each on nonstarters: "Backender," Victoria, ticket QCH 07390 on Fair Claim, "Did," Victoria, ticket RPX 16715 on Monsieur RLC, "Timber," Victoria RNR 72287 on Resurge, G. Morrison, Leechtown, ticket QDP 28953 on Baron's Foxy.

Jack Spring, Ladysmith, ticket QCX 14155 on Rampant, Mr. and Mrs. Eddie Branstom, 312 Lambert, Nanaimo, ticket RQE 35043 on Eudemonon, "Mare," Alberni, ticket RQB

Many further consolation awards of $280 will be given. Only one of these announced yesterday went to Mrs. F. L. Brown, 3045 Beach Drive.

Mr. Wilson, a retired farmer and M.L.A. for Rosetown and Elrose, Sask., for 12 years before coming here in 1946, spent the day taking it easy.

Wong Sing, a cook at a home at 1630 York Place for 36 years, said he would keep his job if he won big money. His seven children include a Vancouver contractor, a UBC commerce professor, a Vancouver restaurant manager, a UBC student, a doctor of chemistry in Ohio and a bookkeeper in a city pharmacy.

Grant Firm Admits 'Disgraceful' Actions

WASHINGTON (UP)—Sears, Roebuck & Co. admitted yesterday that some Sears officials and its former labor relations adviser, Nathan W. Shefferman, committed "inexcusable, unnecessary and disgraceful" acts in an anti-union fight in Boston in 1955.

The company, the world's largest mail-order firm, promised the Senate Rackets Committee that such unfair labor practices would not happen again.

The company's confession—and promise of reform—was given to the committee by Wallace Tudor, vice president in 1955.

charge of personnel for the company.

Former Sears employees told the committee the company used firings and threats of reprisals to block an organizing drive at the company's Fenway store in Boston by the AFL retail clerks union.

The committee is investigating Shefferman whom it called "a notorious union buster." His labor relations firm, Labor Relations Associates, has some 300 management clients.

Tudor said: "The handling of the Boston situation involved a series of mistakes highlighted by widespread use of pressure and coercion, discrimination against employees for union activities, favoritism, intrigue, and unfair labor practices."

"A repetition of these mistakes will not be tolerated by this company," Tudor declared.

Given UN Duty

Maj. William W. Turner, 316 Anson, will leave Canada next week as one of five army officers selected for a one-year tour of duty with the UN truce supervisory organization in Israel.

Leaders Smeared

WASHINGTON (UP)—

Shefferman "consultant" Walter J. Patterson admitted to the Senate Rackets Committee that he master-minded an elaborate plan against "Whirlpool" workers at Clyde, Mich. He said company financed propaganda tabbed union leaders "Communists" and "hoodlums" but never mentioned issues like wage differentials.

Lonely Heart Warmed

By DAVID BROWN

World of darkness is a world of thoughts and memories.

Der Poy Quong, totally blind now for four years, has sad memories of his wife and two sons left in China more than half a century ago.

But for 4½ hours each day his mind concentrates on the present when he puts his skilled fingers to work deftly weaving rushwork chairs and fireside stools at the modern workshop of the Canadian National Institute for the Blind on Blanshard Street.

A Red Feather agency, the CNIB fills the idle hours of the blind with the will and the want to work and the self-satisfaction of earning for their labor.

Poy arrived in Victoria in 1906 with his father and brother from Canton, where his wife still lives. The widening schism of the "bamboo curtain" has in recent years cut his family link through correspondence to a trickle.

In his early years in Victoria, Poy lost the sight of one of his eyes in an accident. For 45 years he cooked in a large number of Victoria homes.

Four years ago Poy contracted a disease in his other eye that called for an operation. His eye could not be saved. He was blind.

Poy's doctor called the CNIB, and Miss Dorothy Stark, field secretary and home teacher of the institute, called on Poy at the Royal Jubilee Hospital. Blind herself, she was well qualified to counsel a newcomer upon the entry to an uncertain, dark world.

"Our first concern with any newly-blinded person is to give them reassurance that they will be able to manage and that they can overcome the many obstacles, physical and psychological, they will encounter," said Miss Stark.

"With Poy, we taught him how to care for himself, count change and tell the time. Then to give him a sense of accomplishment and a feeling of independence, we started him making articles for sale."

"At first," said Poy, "they taught me how to make string shopping bags and link leather belts. My doctor and the nurses at Jubilee gave me orders. The CNIB brought me materials and I made bags and belts."

Soon he was well enough to leave the hospital but had no place to go. His father and brother had passed away long before.

"My friends here work hard all day so I went to the Chinese Hospital," he said. "I live there now."

Each weekday at 1:30 p.m. one of his companions walks with him from the hospital on Herald Street to the CNIB. After an afternoon at the workshop his friend returns to walk him home.

CNIB officials wish they could give their blind craftsmen more work, particularly in the manufacturing and repairing of cane and rush furniture. Trouble is a large influx into the city of the same products from the Philippines and Hong Kong.

"We used to have a backlog of work," said workshop supervisor Alan Browning, also blind. "But lately, while we have men like Poy who are eager and capable of doing more, there have not been enough orders coming in."

Poy is proud of his new-born achievements. And he is warmed in an alien world by the friendship and assistance given him by the CNIB, the Community Chest which is the institute's parent body, and the countless Victorians whose contributions to the Red Feather afford an independent and useful life for the sightless.

Hearing Rates Issue

Strike Voted By Fishermen

VANCOUVER, B.C. (CP)—Herring fishermen and tendermen have voted in favor of strike action in a dispute with the B.C. Fisheries Association over wages, the United Fishermen and Allied Workers' Union announced Friday.

The union gave noon Sunday as its strike deadline.

It said a demand for a minimum seasonal wage of $2,000 for all herring fishermen and a similar minimum for tendermen, subject to classification differences, was placed before fishery operators.

Both the strike vote and the union demands followed a meeting Wednesday at which the union membership voted unanimously to reject company proposals.

The union statement said the company proposals would have cut the rates of herring fishermen from $1.06 per man per ton last year to 90 cents per man per ton this year.

RCN Bound For Germany

BONN (AP)—The first German warships to visit German ports in peacetime will arrive in Hamburg and Kiel next Wednesday, the Canadian Embassy announced yesterday.

The destroyers Haida, Micmac and Assiniboine, under command of Capt. D. G. King, will visit Hamburg. The destroyers St. Laurent, Saguenay and Nootka, under Capt. A. G. Boulton, are destined for the German Baltic naval base at Kiel.

It said the companies also demanded that the crew complement on seine boats be reduced from eight to seven men and that crews on a large number of packers be reduced by one man.

The union is demanding bonuses, based on tonnage of herring caught, as well as seasonal wage minimums.

Victoria's tenpin bowlers, who were beginning to reach the conclusion that the alleys are using solid lead pins, had a ray of hope shine through the haze of mediocre scores this week.

Bill Holness, rolling in the mixed league at Gibson's Bowladrome, set a new season high three-game mark with a sizzling 636 series. Holness started off with a 221 game, caught fire in the second game for 249, then missed his golden opportunity for 700 when he fell to 166 in the third game.

P. Graham, 575, and Wilf Bates, 541, were next highest in the league, while Flo Kierker topped the women's league with 493. In the Friday night mixed league Wilbur Webb led with 519 and R. Pugh rolled 502.

Off to one of its slowest starts, the senior tenpin league at Gibson's had only three noteworthy scores to report. Jack Hobbs paced the league with 573, A. Quinn hit for 564, and George Motion had a 545 series with a 234 single.

In the commercial tenpin league, it was A. Orcharick with 564, Wilbur Webb with 553 (205), Gil Wong with 541 (212) and N. Neeley, 536.

Scores at Strathcona Bowling Alley were unavailable.

With fivepin scores as high as they are in city leagues, some of the top bowlers must be getting impatient for next April to roll around so they can take a trip to Vancouver.

From April 26 to May 8 in Vancouver, the world's largest fivepin tournament will be held as part of the B.C. centennial celebrations.

Officials have guaranteed $10,000 in prizes for the tournament, which will be rolled in three houses. Chapman's Alleys will stage the "A" event on 32 alleys supplied with automatic pinsetters. Commodore Alleys will hold the "B" event and Deluxe Alleys will host the booster event.

The 800 mark continued to take a beating in fivepin action this week. Four 800-or-better series were rolled at Esquimalt Bowladrome, two at Capital City Bowling Alleys and two at Gibson's Bowladrome.

At Capital City, it was Harry Cool with 837 (343), followed by Stan Bell, 841 (336), Al Major, 791; Reg Waggoner, 750; R. Clarke, 711, and Bob Haine, 704.

Reg Waggoner, who rolled a 900 series last week, continued to set a torrid pace in the commercial league at Gibson's, with an 859 series to boost his average to 256. Cec McKee, who leads the league with a 262 mark, followed with 811.

Next in line were Sheldon Nipp, 793; Stan Jones, 767; Bill McKinnon, 762; Bud Brock, 761; Bill Odgers, 736; Wes Vogler, 729, and Cy Wallis, 721. N. Martin was tops in the mixed league at Gibson's with 755 (341), followed by Cy Waters, 715; Jack Gould, 714, and May Wallis, 707.

At Esquimalt, the three to break 800 were Doug Crawford, 866 (376); Frank Morgan, who did it twice with 803 and 836 (328), and Harold Gent, 806 (304).

Other high scorers at Esquimalt were Dick Hall, 787 (301); George Adams, 785 (342); Peggy Hancock, 779; Harry Cool, 759 (348); Cy Wallis, 759; Joan White, 737; Phil Young, 727; Mark Cunningham, 727; H. Gibson, 721 (301); Fred Feethy, 713; Neil Craig, 712; Alec Flypa, 709, and Frank Fairless, 706.

Other prize-winners follow:

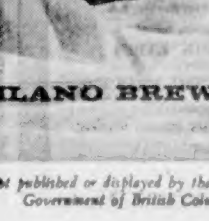

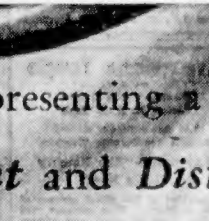

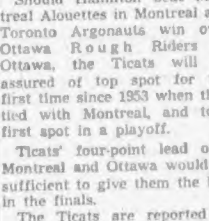

Martin Cup—J. Stokes, T. Bluh, A. Donald.

Horse Cup—R. Jenkins.

Totem Pole—R. Jenkins, A. Donald.

Empire Day Cup—Mrs. Brereton, T. Bluh, C. O'Brien.

Craigflower Cup—Mrs. Law, J. Brereton, W. Gilmour.

Lion Hopes May End Tonight; Tackle Record-Smashing Esks

This is record night for Edmonton Eskimos. They'll the game or playing from the other backs carry for the score, set a new Western Interprovincial Football Union mark half, he'll insist that one of the says Ivy.

almost every time they get hold of the ball in their home game tonight against British Columbia Lions.

The Esks have already cracked five WIFU team and two individual records. Tonight their Tennessee terror, Jackie Parker, is gunning for the individual scoring mark.

For the Lions, battling for a third-place playoff position in the five-team league, the outlook is discouraging. Not only are they up against the ram-paging Esks but their hopes may be smashed in an afternoon game at Regina between Calgary Stampeders and the tail-end Saskatchewan Roughriders.

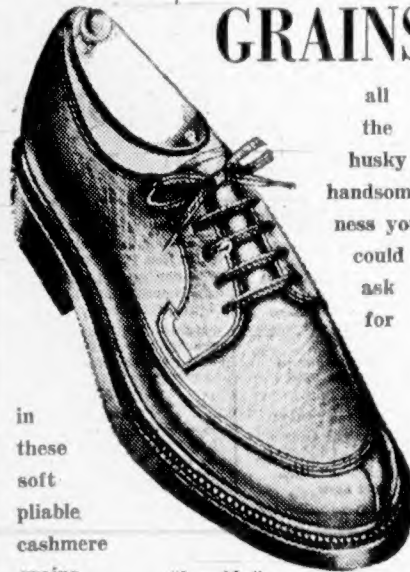

A Calgary win would give the Stamps third spot and put them in the playoffs ahead of the Lions.

Stampeders will wind up their 16-game schedule Monday night at Winnipeg. The schedule ends next Saturday when Edmonton is at Regina and Winnipeg at Vancouver.

Eskimos already have established the over-all yardage-gained-from-scrammage record with a net 6,138 yards passing

Special Offering Asked for Bibles

Special offerings will be collected in many Greater Victoria churches tomorrow in support of the world-wide work of the British and Foreign Bible Society.

Tomorrow has been designated as "Bible Sunday" by the operation of churches and their congregations.

Last year the society circulated 10,000,000 copies of the scriptures, costing some $3,000,000, but due to lack of funds the society will be unable to meet present orders for a further $3,000,000 worth of Bibles.

Failure to meet the requests for Bibles has never happened before in the society's history.

A film depicting social work in B.C. was shown by F. A. Davidson, assistant administrator of social welfare, at a thanks offering meeting of the Women's Missionary Society this week at First United Church.

Victoria branch of the society. The parent body has asked the Victoria branch to raise $4,500 to help carry on the society's work. Twice that amount is expected to be collected today through the cooperation of churches and their congregations.

RT. REV. P. R. BEATTIE

Bishop of Kootenay To Preach Mission

Opening service of a preaching mission in Royal Oak parish by Rt. Rev. P. R. Beattie, bishop of Kootenay, will be held at 11 a.m. tomorrow at St. Columba's Church, Strawberry Vale.

Bishop Beattie will be the preacher and Archbishop H. E. Sexton the celebrant.

The mission, to continue until Nov. 3, will embrace the whole parish and include St. Michael's Church, Royal Oak.

Services will continue at St. Columba's on Monday and Tuesday at St. Michael's on Wednesday, Thursday and Friday, concluding on Sunday, Nov. 3.

Bishop Beattie was dean of Christ Church Cathedral here before his election and consecration as bishop of Kootenay in May, 1955.

A drive for funds to complete the replacement of St. Mary's Church on Elgin Road is to start immediately, Rev. H. J. Jones, rector, stated yesterday.

The building is expected to cost $105,000. It is to be of stone construction replacing the present wooden structure.

B.C. Private Broadcasters Ready

'Let's Test Blue Laws'

VANCOUVER (CP)—Private radio broadcasters yesterday welcomed the possibility of the Vancouver police commission using them to test Sunday blue laws.

Gil Seabrook of station CJIB, Vancouver, said the B.C. Association of Broadcasters, said: "Let them act against the stations. The public protest would be so great that the law would be changed and that is long overdue."

Assistant manager Sam Ross of station CKWX, Vancouver, said: "I hope they do go ahead and prosecute. It will show the law up as ridiculous and will clear this whole thing up once and for all."

"This matter should be settled once and for all and not waste any more unnecessary time," said CKLG manager John N. Hunt. "It is a most serious situation. A great majority of the people called for an open Sunday-by-plebiscite but the government refuses to implement their wishes. Let's have another plebiscite."

Symphony society president Arthur J. Andrew said he foresees the end of symphony music in Vancouver if Sunday subscription concerts are closed.

A spokesman for the Lord's Day Alliance said he was in favor of eliminating advertising from Sunday radio programs. But he declined to commit his organization to a stand on pitch-and-putt golf.

City Prosecutor Stewart McMorran named the city as a violator of the Lord's Day Act Thursday on grounds it operated the pitch-and-putt course in Stanley Park.

Lord's Day Alliance secretary Harold T. Allen said his organization is not interested in "trivialities."

Frolic-Filled Halloween ...

... Can Still Be Safe

Focus Your Fun on a Fire!

Dolls on Display

Dolls of many nations are featured at Victoria Folk Festival in Central Junior High School. Scottish dancer Linda Holland, 8, of 2120 Newton, and Hungarian (Lub's) Veronica Pajer, 1317 Bank, hold their favorites. Two-day event continues today with handicrafts at 1:30 p.m. and 8 p.m., and an evening concert. (Colonist photo by Ted Harris.)

Community bonfires, so successful in past years, will again be centres of attraction for many Greater Victoria children on Halloween. There will be at least a half dozen of these fun-fairs for youngsters this year.

One of the biggest materials for the bonfire has been piling up for weeks: will be sponsored jointly by Oak Bay firemen and Kiwanians. It will be held outside the firehall on Monterey, and like the rest will start at about 7 p.m.

As in the past, the Hometowners will provide music for the throng of costumed youngsters at this big party.

Generally the pattern will be similar at bonfires at Langford, sponsored by community organizations; at the Shelbourne firehall, sponsored by Saanich firemen, at Banfield Park, sponsored by Victoria West Community Centre, at Bollens Park sponsored by the municipality and run by Esquimalt Lions and, farther out at the new community hall grounds in Sidney, sponsored by the North Saanich Teen Towners.

The "fun for everyone" will include costume parades with prizes, entertainment and treats for the children. Annual warning about use of fireworks of all kinds was issued yesterday by Victoria's Chief Constable John Blackstock, and echoed by other municipal chiefs.

Sale of any fireworks will be permitted only on Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday. In Victoria sales must close at 6 p.m. sharp on Tuesday and Thursday and on Wednesday sales may be sold after 12 noon.

In municipalities where stores are open Wednesday afternoon sales may continue, but Victoria police will be alert for any violation of the sales regulations.

All municipal police forces have plans well in hand for Halloween patrols but no details are being released.

Celebrants are warned that while reasonable fun may be expected, rowdiness will meet prompt action. Police also warn that it is illegal to set off any fireworks on private property without written permission from council.

This includes firecrackers, anywhere on any street.

Wurtele Calls for Joint Body To Settle District Problems

City Jobless

List Grows Longer

Unemployment in Greater Victoria took another jump last week to push the total of jobless to 2,486, J. H. Fox, manager of the National Employment office, reported yesterday.

There were 2,486 unemployed registered at the office at this time last year.

Number of jobless men jumped 128 in the past week to a total of 1,847. Unemployed women number 899, 78 more than a week ago.

LUMBER, LOGGING

Jobless were mainly of the lumber and logging trades, metal working trades, building construction trades, service occupations, seamen and unskilled workers.

Male clerical workers found slightly more positions available during the week but the number of women registered showed an increase.

Victoria's two big shipyards presented a different picture yesterday of what their winter employment situation was likely to be.

FAIRLY STEADY

H. S. Hammill, general manager of Victoria Machinery Depot, said "our work force will remain fairly steady."

A spokesman for Yarrow's, however, pointed to jobs that were being completed and said he knew of no contracts to replace them.

At VMD, Mr. Hammill said the destroyer escort being built will be under construction "until this time next year or later."

The Yarrow's spokesman said there would be "a gradual lay-off" as naval work is wound up. He did say, however, that a serious layoff was not expected.

ONLY TEMPORARY?

However, the new suitor shows he has the same faults as the one the lady rejected. He lacks all lack of information from the government and the free use of orders-in-council (all attacked by the Tories in opposition) as current government practices.

He warned the Social Credit party that it will be subject to increasing pressure by the Tories to bring it into direct support of the Conservatives rather than remain just allies.

Chest Drive Passes Half-Way

Chances of Mayor Percy Scurrah winning a new silk hat brightened yesterday as Victoria's Community Chest campaign total passed the half-way mark.

Collections stood at $128,800.25 last night, 51.1 per cent of the $251,717 target.

WILLIAM WALSH AND WIFE FLORENCE

... keep it a secret

What's His Line? He's a Caddy, 81

A personality well known to the golfing fraternity in Victoria for years may have the TV show 'What's My Line' New York tomorrow night.

So don't tell your New York friends because it might spoil his chances of getting on the show.

Spicy 81-year-old William Walsh, 507 Simcoe, let the columnist in on the secret last night on the understanding that readers would not let him down and pass on the information.

He's a caddy and has been following his profession in Victoria since 1921.

"I have made up my mind to go on the show for a long time," he said.

He is regarded as one of the oldest caddies in the business. His name was sent to the TV show in New York by his daughter Mrs. Douglas Mann, 808 Talmie, who accompanied him on the expenses-paid air trip to the east last night.

Mr. Walsh is believed to be the first Victoria resident to appear on the eight-year-old program to be aired on channel 11 at 10:30 p.m. tomorrow.

Mr. Walsh could win anywhere from nothing to $50 depending on how many "no" answers he gives the panel.

Stricken Coroner In Good Condition

Dr. E. C. Hart, Victoria coroner, is reported in "good" condition in St. Joseph's Hospital where he was admitted Wednesday, suffering from a heart ailment.

Deputy coroner Dr. J. H. Moore is acting coroner in his absence.

Hunt for Henson May End Today

Divers from Victoria Tug and Barge today will make probably their last attempt to search for the body of Ted Henson and his helicopter at Tatlayoke Lake.

Vancouver Island Helicopters Ltd. representative Ted Protheroe said the craft was now believed down more than 225 feet in the 33-degree water near the headwaters of the Ho-mathko River on the mainland.

collections there totalled $1,483,200, or 58.5 per cent.

Officials in Victoria are jubilant with returns so high and less than half the residential and industrial-commercial canvasses completed.

Even though none of the residential districts have been completed, 12 have already

Other Reeves Agree

By COURTNEY TOWER

Reeve A. C. Wurtele of Esquimalt called yesterday for re-examining and strengthening a former intermunicipal committee to try to iron out some "serious" Greater Victoria problems.

Officials of the other municipalities backed his stand, but with varying degrees of enthusiasm.

The former intermunicipal committee was active until about two years ago, when it was under the chairmanship of Victoria Ald. Millard Mooney, but it has since fizzled into inactivity.

MANY THINGS

"It is essential that municipalities have good liaison. There are many things intermunicipal in character that should be discussed by an intermunicipal committee," said Reeve Wurtele.

"In the past it has been a hazy and hazy affair. I would like to see it formed on as high a plane as possible, with the mayor and reeves, and an alderman or councillor from each municipality as members. Regular meetings should be held and we should have a secretary."

"There are many problems that should be discussed like sewers, drainage and traffic and budgetary problems like joint responsibility for roads."

NOT OPPOSED

Saanich Reeve Arthur Ash said he was "not against" the idea, "if something can be accomplished by it."

The issue, however, "boils down to the fact we should all be one municipality," he said.

Esquimalt and Oak Bay and some Saanich councillors have opposed amalgamation.

The old intermunicipal committee "apparently has been about as dead as a dead duck," he said.

Ash recalled that last year he called a meeting of the mayor and reeves and engineers of the municipalities on sewage.

"But all the engineers except Mr. Dawson (H. D. Dawson, former Saanich engineer) felt they had no problems at all."

"That was a subject that could well have been considered."

EXCELLENT

Victoria Ald. Arthur Dowell said "it's an excellent idea."

"It's a pity the committee has not been more active. I think I'm on that committee to tell you the truth. Maybe I should mumble."

Ald. Dowell said there had been no meetings this year "due to lack of interest shown by the other municipalities, outside of Saanich."

Ald. Mooney said it would be the best committee ever formed for Greater Victoria. "I don't think there'll be any objection from any member of the Victoria council."

"If we had a good intermunicipal committee it would do as much good as amalgamation."

NOT REPRESENTATIVE

He agreed with Mr. Wurtele that members should not act "as representatives of their municipalities, but as a committee for Greater Victoria."

Reeve Fred Norris of Oak Bay said the committee "was working very well when Ald. Mooney was chairman but it has petered out. It certainly served a valuable purpose and I would be in favor of reviving it."

Squiggles Tell Story

Yards of squiggles are studied intently by Robert Mene, chief seismologist at the Dominion Astrophysical Observatory. The curling lines were information coming in yesterday from shock waves, which in turn sprang from depth charges dropped in Juan de Fuca Strait by HMCS Oshawa. It's all part of a research study leading up to giant Ripple Rock blasting next spring. (Colonist photo by Jim Ryan.)

Young Vandals Smashed Trucks For the Thrills

COURTENAY - Three juveniles were fined $150 each and ordered to pay costs for smashing two trucks yesterday from rocky Queen's Island, 10 miles north of Zeballos, open court here Friday on charges of causing more than $7,000 damage to six logging trucks.

The trio admitted joyriding two weeks ago in trucks worth $200,000 taken from a company yard of Canox Logging and Railway Limited, northwest of Courtenay and passing the vehicle yards in the middle of the company road.

Two of the trucks rolled a 5000 engine was burned out of cases. Its owner is listed as one and all suffered bumps and dents.

The rescue was carried out by the fishing vessel Agly after fast vessels had tried without success to take the unidentified men.

Crew members of ships in the vicinity said the Aramington I dis appeared after it sailed a few minutes after it piled up at Queen's Island. Its owner is listed as High Gordon of Courtenay.

ALBERT BAY (CP)—An inquest was held Thursday into a case of the death of a child who was drowned while his parents were in jail for drunkenness.

The jury said Johnny Walkus, three, died through negligence of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Walkus of Smith Inlet. The child was drowned when his parents' leaky boat sank. He was discovered in the swollen millrace near this northern Vancouver Island community.

Walkus testified a constable did nothing when he explained the boy's lie-claimed the policeman thought the story was a ruse—he could get away.

Walkus could not identify the father to whom he spoke.

Constables Ernie Gray, Mel Stern and J. D. Howard told the jury that when they picked up the couple Saturday there was no mention of the boat or child.

Walkus said he has nine children.

SCHOOL - School attendance in Chemainus this week has been hard hit by flu although a number of students had already returned to school.

Absentees at the high school were 58, out of the 215 students. At the elementary school 79 out of 380; at Mount Brenon school, Saltair, 79 out of 175 students.

Six cases of chicken pox were reported from the Chemainus elementary school.

Delegates from all points on Vancouver Island will attend the Vancouver Island district meeting of Oddfellows and Rebekahs in Victoria today.

The groups will convene separately in the Oddfellows Hall on Douglas Street. A special meeting will be held at 2 p.m.

Must Cast Out Indifference Liberals Told

Former finance minister Walter Harris called on Liberal party members and followers to cast out the "widespread condition of vicious indifference" shown in the ranks at all levels prior to the party's June defeat.

In a combination post-mortem of one election and pep talk for the next, Mr. Harris told the Victoria Liberal Club last night that he was confident "we will form the core of a successful rearing force of the Liberal party in a much shorter time than generally suspected."

Party workers still unimpressed with the need for positive action must be rooted out and replaced with those willing to work hard, he said.

"Then the first requirement is to be alive to opportunities and seize upon them at the right time."

The ex-minister said that time will tell how much of a mistake was made by the election of Victoria and many other ridings in June.

He compared the position of the Liberal party to a bean who had been superceded in a lady's affection by another suitor.

ONLY TEMPORARY?

However, the new suitor shows he has the same faults as the one the lady rejected. He lacks all lack of information from the government and the free use of orders-in-council (all attacked by the Tories in opposition) as current government practices.

He warned the Social Credit party that it will be subject to increasing pressure by the Tories to bring it into direct support of the Conservatives rather than remain just allies.

Total savings in the project since its renewal in June, 1956, now stands at $37,425, with $108,864.56 expended out of an estimated $236,292.56 budgeted for the period.

Not included in the sewer bylaw is the cost of house connections and subsequent house connections to the sewers for which Reeve Ash said he will ask council to raise rate revision.

House connection bylaw calls for a charge of $105 to connect homes built in the sewer district some time after the sewers are installed. However, the average cost to the municipality for each subsequent connection has been $111.50, he said.

Sewers Savings Soaring

Saanich chalked up further savings in its renewed sewers program during September.

Reeve Arthur Ash disclosed yesterday.

Cost of sewer installations during the month amounted to $23,227.19 compared with an estimated total expenditure for the month of $30,971.95.

Flu Graph 'On a Level'

Incidence of influenza continued "on a level" here yesterday, running about 10 per cent of the school population, Dr. Elizabeth Mahaffy, Victoria Esquimalt medical health officer, reported.

Dr. Mahaffy said Asian flu vaccine shots had been started for the 2,000 persons in the city's essential services and would be completed next week.

Chest Drive Passes Half-Way

Topper's Closer, Mr. Mayor!

Chances of Mayor Percy Scurrah winning a new silk hat brightened yesterday as Victoria's Community Chest campaign total passed the half-way mark.

Collections stood at $128,800.25 last night, 51.1 per cent of the $251,717 target.

Earlier this month Mayor Scurrah challenged Mayor Fred Hume of Vancouver in a contest to see whether Victoria or Vancouver would reach its objective first. Winning mayor is to get a silk topper from the other.

Chest officials in Vancouver announced last night that collections there totalled $1,483,200, or 58.5 per cent.

Officials in Victoria are jubilant with returns so high and less than half the residential and industrial-commercial canvasses completed.

Even though none of the residential districts have been completed, 12 have already gone over their quotas, some as much as 200 per cent.

Hector Alexander, campaign chairman, said he is confident the drive will go over the top in Victoria.

"The canvassers are doing a wonderful job this year and we are urging them to get in their returns as quickly as possible," he said.

This morning's column is going to be "odds and ends" if you know what I mean. In other words, we are going to jump from one subject to another for no particular rhyme or reason.

Mrs. A. H. phoned to tell me she doesn't understand why I say the young brides don't know how to cook. I didn't put it that way but no matter. We columnist's lives are wide open to criticism, often unjustified. My implication was that some youngsters who go to the altar don't know how to cook.

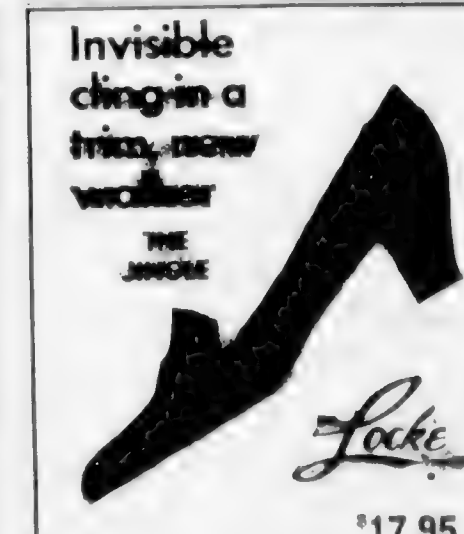

Granted, these excellent Household Science courses conducted so ably in many a school, will soon make such an occasional situation impossible. And dare I add many a mention has been made in this space regarding the importance of teaching youngsters, in the home, how to cook?

This same Mrs. A. H. (with whom I parted on the most friendly terms, told me yesterday she baked bread for a large family at the enormous age of ten. Hats off to her!

TRICK OF THE DAY

"Lay off the wheat germ," says Mrs. B. S. of Duncan. "It's a little too much for me."

At the risk of sounding horribly rude, I say "Lay off the wheat germ." How could an intake of the Vitamin B-1 do that to you? She might have an allergy—what do you think?

A LOVELIER YOU

By Mary Sue Miller

You or You?

REDUCER'S BREAKFAST. When reducing, you must eat breakfast. Those who skip the meal thinking to save calories are in error. What they save at breakfast, they consume at lunch—they're starved. And between times, they are miserable for want of the energy that a morning meal supplies.

This does not mean, of course, that reducers can go all out and eat stacks of wheatcakes, smothered in syrup. But you can and should consume a breakfast that weighs in at about three hundred calories, high in proteins and vitamins. For your guidance, two such menus follow.

1. Change juice (4 oz.) boiled egg, slice protein toast with half pat butter. 2. Half grapefruit with top honey-cup corn flakes with skim milk and sugar substitute, 3 strips broiled bacon on half slice dietetic bread.

Add your favorite beverage and you have a breakfast that is right for you and right good, too!

PAINLESS REDUCING

To lose up to ten pounds without a struggle, send for my leaflet "Painless Reducing." No rapid dieting, no heavy exercising, no discomfort! All advice is sane, easy to take and effective. Address your request to me in care of this newspaper, enclosing a large, self-addressed stamped envelope and five cents in coin.

SPCA Elated At Conviction In Dog Case

Mrs. Dorothy O'Brien of Langford was fined $10 and $5.50 costs in Colwood police court yesterday on a charge of abandoning a dog in distress.

Court was told accused had taken an ailing dog out and left it by the side of the road. Charge was laid by the SPCA. Leonard Page, secretary-manager of the Victoria SPCA, told the Colonist yesterday:

"Getting a conviction in this case is very gratifying to the SPCA and the officers involved. It is not our aim to cause any hardship to any individual, but we hope this will act as a definite deterrent in the future."

"We hope to put a stop to cases of cruelty to animals, such as abandonment of dogs and cats in the country or along the highways of the province."

"The last six months have seen a decided increase in cases of animal abandonment, and the society has been swamped with calls to pick up neglected dogs and cats."

"It is very difficult to get convictions in most of these affairs, due to absence of witnesses to the abandonment. However, if anyone sees such an act, and is willing to testify, we will be only too glad to take the case from there on."

"We are determined to do our utmost to eliminate this ugly form of cruelty."

Also in Colwood court, John Crawford of Victoria was fined $50 and $3 costs for shooting a doe in the East Sooke district.

Court Studies Appeal

Merits of an appeal against a judgment last March 1 of Mr. Justice Macfarlane are being studied by the B.C. Court of Appeal.

Mrs. Dorothy Whitehead, 1517 Coldharbour Road, claimed before the court yesterday that she was entitled to damages from the city of Victoria following a collision involving her car and a Victoria fire truck at Government and Bay on May 30, 1955.

It was this claim which was dismissed by Mr. Justice Macfarlane.

Lawyer Donald Anderson, who argued before the court yesterday that Mr. Justice Macfarlane had erred in attributing any negligence in connection with the accident to his client, Mrs. Whitehead, seeks to introduce fresh evidence.

The court will consider such admission while studying the merits of the appeal.

Mrs. Whitehead sought damages from the city and from Edward Hall, 230 Robertson, driver of the fire truck.
